Sir,

Today's statements of interest attached and text below. We will continue monitoring reporting and will distribute a late afternoon edition. Of note, we're including the complete transcript of an ABC interview with Seif al Islam and Christiane Amanpour.

000003

Additionally, please note that based upon our research to date that is still in staffing with several Directors we are using the following spelling of the Libyan leader's name:

Libyan leader Muammar al-Qadhafi
Qadhafi on second reference

We also note that many media outlets spell the name differently and we will continue to post the stories as they appear in print.

Very respectfully,

(b)(3)/(b)(6)

STATEMENTS

“(T)oday's resolution is a strong message that reemphasizes what was already in 1970. As many of our colleagues you heard today on the Council said, and as the United States has said repeatedly, Qadhafi has lost his legitimacy. There is no justification for his continued leadership now that he has perpetrated violence against his own people. We have had the opportunity, as you acknowledged, to meet with the opposition, and we are actively looking at what options might follow.”

“(I)t should be noted that the first operative paragraph of the resolution calls for an immediate ceasefire and an end to the violence, and the second operative paragraph demands respect for the rights of the Libyan people and we are very serious about seeing those provisions respected.”

– U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations Susan Rice, March 17, 2011

“(I)t is important to recognize that military experts across the world know that a no-fly zone requires certain actions taken to protect the planes and the pilots, including bombing targets like the Libyan defense systems. So there are certain actions that are being discussed specifically, and there are also generalized grants of authority that would not require such specificity.”

– U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, March 17, 2011

“It is a clear to the Libyan people that they are not alone. It is also a clear message to Colonel Gaddafi and those who are supporting him that there is no place for dictatorship ... there is no place for atrocities, for mass killing.”

– Libya's deputy foreign minister Khaled Kaaim, March 18, 2011

"We should not enter a military confrontation on the optimistic assumption that quick results with few casualties will be achieved."

– German ambassador to the UN, Peter Wittig, March 18, 2011

"We should not arrive too late."

– French Foreign Minister Alain Juppe, March 18, 2011

"Together, we can save the martyred people of Libya. It is now a matter of days, if not hours."

– French President Nicolas Sarkozy, March 17, 2011

"We support the U.N. Secretary-General's Special Envoy to Libya, African Union and Arab League to resolve this crisis peacefully. We hope that the situation in Libya will return to stability as soon as possible to avoid more serious escalation of armed conflict and humanitarian crisis."

– Chinese Ministry of Foreign Affairs spokeswoman Jiang Yu, March 18, 2011

"If the world is crazy, we will be crazy, too."

- Moammar Gadhafi's regime defiantly closed Libya's airspace to all traffic while the West made plans to enforce a no-fly zone and prevent his forces from attacking rebels after the U.N. authorized "all necessary measures" to protect the Libyan people, including airstrikes.
- Gadhafi, calling in to Libyan television on Thursday, said his forces would "rescue" the people of Benghazi, the eastern Mediterranean port city that has become the de-facto rebel capital and staging ground. For those who resist, Gadhafi said, there would be "no mercy or compassion."
- "This is your happy day, we will destroy your enemies," he said, warning the people of Benghazi not to stand alongside the opposition. "Prepare for this moment to get rid of the traitors. Tomorrow we will show the world, to see if the city is one of traitors or heroes."

TRANSCRIPT

Al Qathafi Family Not Afraid of UN Resolution, Seif al Islam Says

Below is complete transcript of interview with Christiane Amanpour

<http://abcnews.go.com/Nightline/libya-war-christiane-amanpour-saif-gadhafi-interview-transcript/story?id=13162838>

The United States and its allies appear poised to take military action on the heels of a U.N. resolution earlier this evening imposing a no-fly zone over Libya and authorizing "all necessary measures" to protect civilians. Late Thursday, after the U.N. resolution, ABC News' Christiane Amanpour spoke to Gadhafi's son Saif, who was in Tripoli. What follows is a transcript of their conversation.

Christiane Amanpour: Seif Al Qathafi is joining me from Tripoli. Can you tell me where you are?

Seif Al Qathafi: I'm in Tripoli right now.

CA: Are you hiding? Are you worried?

Seif: Hiding from whom?

CA: Well, as you know, the U.N. has taken a resolution that would potentially involve air strikes against your father's air defences and various military emplacements.

Seif: I think we are in our country and with our people. As I said before, we live here so we are in our country with our people. And we are not afraid.

CA: What is your father's reaction, your reaction to this resolution that's just been taken?

Seif: First of all, it was unfair because, as you know, as you know, from the beginning we told to everybody there were no air strikes against civilians, no bombing of civilian districts or demonstrations. And thousands of those reports showed they were false. And this is No. 1. No. 2, even if you see last week what happened. The army and Libyan volunteers did fight the armoured militia and liberated five Libyan cities from them. Have we seen a single civilian casualty? Even the terrorists or the armed people, they just surrender. So there was no bloodshed in Libya.

CA: Let me ask you this. What are you going to do with Benghazi? People in Benghazi are cheering this U.N. resolution because they're afraid of your father's forces.

Seif: Listen, this is a big mistake. In Benghazi, we have 1.5 million people. If you are listening to 1,000 or 2,000, that's a different story. But believe me, the people there are living in misery and it is a big mess. You know, the armoured militia yesterday, they killed four young boys in Benghazi. Why? Because they were against them. Everybody is terrified because of the armed militia. They live in terror. Nightmare. Armed people are everywhere. They have their own courts. They execute the people who are against them. No school. No hospital. No money. No banks. Do you think the people are happy? Of course not. We are receiving every day on TV, every day, hundreds of calls from Benghazi. Every day people are crying saying, "Please come and liberate us from this nightmare." Those terrorists. The people are not happy there. Are you happy if you're in a city which is controlled by gangsters and armed people and armed militia?

CA: Let me ask you this. It's the Arab League who is really asking for intervention. And it's very unusual. They don't think that the people of Libya are alright. They believe that they are being slaughtered.

SG: First of all, Libya is not Bahrain, where like 78 percent of the population are against the royal family and the other countries are sending tools to oppress them. In Libya, it's the other way around. And the Arabs want to settle accounts with Libya. We know that. And by the way, there's a funny story here in Libya. Everyone is happy with America because people hear that the United States is against airstrikes against Libya and is not supporting British and French, Britain and France. So people here, they are angry with the Europeans. And for the first time in modern history, they like the Americans and are happy with America. And that's why, like today, people said when the army captured the New York Times correspondent in the city of [unintelligible] because she entered the city illegally, but when they found out she was American they said it's OK. You're good people. We'll free you. Even here in Libya. Because people think that Arabs and Europeans betrayed the Libyan people. And they have their own agenda. And they think the Americans have a different position. And they have, like you say, different position toward Libya. So the Arabs, as usual they are hypocrites. In Bahrain, they have proven to oppress the Bahraini people. And in Libya, no demonstration that we are Libyan fighting the armored militia and terrorists. And they are against us.

CA: Saif, let me ask you something: The four New York Times journalists -- are they going to be freed? Where are they right now?

SG: You know, they entered country illegally and when the army, when they liberated the city of Ajdabiyah from the terrorists and they found her there and they arrest her because you know foreigners in this place. But then they were happy because they found out she is American, not European. And thanks to that she will be free tomorrow. But I told you that here the people are welcoming the American position and not the Europeans and the Arabs. We are very angry at the Europeans and the Arabs because they are happy with you if you are strong -- they have contracts, they have deals and oil. If you are weak, everybody is against you. This time, the Americans are different.

CA: But this time, Americans have voted for this resolution. You know, your father told us that the whole country loves him, that his people love [him], and clearly that is not the case because in so many parts of the country they were rising up against him. Do you think your father deserves now to remain head of Libya after all these killings, after all this fighting?

SG: We said this many times in the past -- that we are going to have new competition and a new system, and you will see the birth of a new Libya soon. This is settled, and once and for all. But please, I want to tell everybody, like two days ago, when the armed militia in the city of [unintelligible] surrendered to the army. They surrendered to the army because they are cowards and they escaped. Half a million people living there, they are happy and went to rallies and everybody was happy. Why? Because they were controlled by the militia for two weeks. The same in Al Zawiha, the same thing In El Salta woof, in all the cities. Have you seen single civilian casualty? And everybody was happy, everybody was happy to show me. If you want to support the terrorists and the armed militia, OK, so go and support bin Laden and al Qaeda and the mafia in Sicily or in Boston and New York. They want safety and they want peace and order, law and order. We want to live in peace, so we want even Americans to help us get rid of the remnants of those people and to have a peaceful country, more democratic. If you want to help us, help us to, you know, to be democracy, more freedom, peaceful, not to threaten us with air strikes. We will not be afraid. Come on! We will not be afraid. I mean, you are not helping to the people if you are going to bomb Libya, to kill Libyans. You destroy our country. Nobody is happy with that. If you want to help us help us against terrorists, help us to build the new Libya with more democracy, more freedom, new constitution, local governments, et cetera. But if you want to help Libyans, you send airplanes to bomb my country? Of course not.

CA: Saif, you said tonight that military operations are over, the U.N. resolution is too late. What do you mean by that?

SG: Why? Because even-- Listen, I'll give you a small example. Now, we did liberate most of the country, even the city of [unintelligible] is next to the Egyptian border. There is the green flag and we get rid of the [unintelligible] and it's a very safe and peaceful city. The people themselves in the city of [unintelligible] did liberate. In the city of [Benjawi?], the people did fight for their city and liberated their city from the [capital?], even without the help of the Libyan army. Just give you two examples: [unintelligible] the same thing in Benghazi. Now even in Benghazi, they fled city. They escaped. And my father said tonight, "You boys, you lay down your arms and we pardon you." And this will happen. They laid down arms, so most of them have been neutralized. Except maybe a few of them are still there. Who knows?

CA: Tell me what is going to happen. Are you going to free, release the four New York Times journalists?

SG: As I said, believe me, this is not my decision, but the people here now, the news here in Libya, I don't know why they are annoyed with Americans. ... People are very angry with Arabs and Europeans, and I heard this is not because of that. They will release her although she entered country illegally.

CA: Thank you very much, indeed.

SG: You're welcome.

- Moammar Gadhafi warned international forces they would "regret" intervening in Libya and his troops attacked the heart of the 5-week-old uprising on Saturday, swarming the first city seized by the rebels with shells, gunfire and warplanes.
- "Where is France, where is NATO?" cried a 50-year-old woman in Benghazi. "It's too late."
- Leaders from the Arab world, Africa, the United States and other Western powers were holding urgent talks in Paris on Saturday over possible military action after the Libyan government, apparently hoping to outflank the effort, declared a cease-fire.
- On Saturday, a warplane was shot down over the outskirts of the key rebel-held city of Benghazi, sending up a massive black cloud of smoke. An Associated Press reporter saw the plane go down in flames and heard the sound of artillery and crackling gunfire in the distance.

TRANSCRIPTS*President Obama's Remarks on Libya

PRESIDENT OBAMA: Good afternoon, everybody. I want to take this opportunity to update the American people about the situation in Libya.

Over the last several weeks, the world has watched events unfold in Libya with hope and alarm. Last month, protesters took to the streets across the country to demand their universal rights and a government that is accountable to them and responsive to their aspirations.

But they were met with an iron fist. Within days, whole parts of the country declared their independence from a brutal regime. And members of the government serving in Libya and abroad chose to align themselves with the forces of change.

Moammar Gadhafi clearly lost the confidence of his own people and the legitimacy to lead. Instead of respecting the rights of his own people, Gadhafi chose the path of brutal suppression. Innocent civilians were beaten, imprisoned and in some cases killed. Peaceful protests were forcefully put down. Hospitals were attacked and patients disappeared. A campaign of intimidation and repression began.

In the face of this injustice, the United States and the international community moved swiftly. Sanctions were put in place by the United States and our allies and partners. The U.N. Security Council imposed further sanctions, an arms embargo and the specter of international accountability for Gadhafi and those around him. Humanitarian assistance was positioned on Libya's borders. And those displaced by the violence received our help.

STATEMENTS OF INTEREST IN THE PRESS - LIBYAAs of 1200 CET 19 MAR 2011*

Ample warning was given that Gadhafi needed to stop his campaign of repression or be held accountable. The Arab League and the European Union joined us in calling for an end to violence.

Once again, Gadhafi chose to ignore the will of his people and the international community.

Instead, he launched a military campaign against his own people. And there should be no doubt about his intentions, because he, himself, has made them clear. For decades, he's demonstrated a willingness to use brute force, through his sponsorship of terrorism against the American people as well as others, and through the killings that he has carried out within his own borders.

And just yesterday, speaking of the city of Benghazi a -- a city of roughly 700,000 people, he threatened, and I quote: "We will have no mercy and no pity." No mercy on his own citizens.

Now, here's why this matters to us. Left unchecked, we have every reason to believe that Gadhafi would commit atrocities against his people. Many thousands could die. A humanitarian crisis would ensue. The entire region could be destabilized, endangering many of our allies and partners. The calls of the Libyan people for help would go unanswered. The democratic values that we stand for would be overrun. Moreover, the words of the international community would be rendered hollow.

And that's why the United States has worked with our allies and partners to shape a strong international response at the United Nations. Our focus has been clear: protecting innocent civilians within Libya, and holding the Gadhafi regime accountable.

Yesterday, in response to a call for action by the Libyan people and the Arab League, the U.N. Security Council passed a strong resolution that demands an end to the violence against citizens. It authorizes the use of force, with an explicit commitment to pursue all necessary measures to stop the killing, to include the enforcement of a no-fly zone over Libya.

It also strengthens our sanctions and the enforcement of an arms embargo against the Gadhafi regime.

Now, once more, Moammar Gadhafi has a choice. The resolution that passed lays out very clear conditions that must be met. The United States, the United Kingdom, France and Arab states agree that a cease-fire must be implemented immediately. That means all attacks against civilians must stop. Gadhafi must stop his troops from advancing on Benghazi; pull them back from Adjadbiya, Misrata and Zawiya; and establish water, electricity and gas supplies to all areas. Humanitarian assistance must be allowed to reach the people of Libya.

STATEMENTS OF INTEREST IN THE PRESS - LIBYAAs of 1200 CET 19 MAR 2011*

Let me be clear, these terms are not negotiable. These terms are not subject to negotiation. If Gadhafi does not comply with the resolution, the international community will impose consequences, and the resolution will be enforced through military action.

In this effort, the United States is prepared to act as part of an international coalition. American leadership is essential, but that does not mean acting alone. It means shaping the conditions for the international community to act together.

What's why I've directed Secretary Gates and our military to coordinate their planning, and tomorrow Secretary Clinton will travel to Paris for a meeting with our European allies and Arab partners about the enforcement of Resolution 1973.

We will provide the unique capabilities that we can bring to bear to stop the violence against civilians, including enabling our European allies and Arab partners to effectively enforce a no-fly zone.

I have no doubt that the men and women of our military are capable of carrying out this mission. Once more, they have the thanks of a grateful nation, and the admiration of the world.

I also want to be clear about what we will not be doing. The United States is not going to deploy ground troops into Libya, and we are not going to use force to go beyond a well-defined goal, specifically the protection of civilians in Libya. In the coming weeks, we will continue to help the Libyan people with humanitarian and economic assistance so that they can fulfill their aspirations peacefully.

Now, the United States did not seek this outcome. Our decisions have been driven by Gadhafi's refusal to respect the rights of his people and the potential for mass murder of innocent civilians.

It is not an action that we will pursue alone. Indeed, our British and French allies and members of the Arab League have already committed to take a leadership role in the enforcement of this resolution, just as they were instrumental in pursuing it. We are coordinating closely with them. And this is precisely how the international community should work, as more nations bear both the responsibility and the cost of enforcing international law.

This is just one more chapter in the change that is unfolding across the Middle East and North Africa. From the beginning of these protests, we made it clear that we are opposed to violence. We've made clear our support for a set of universal values, and our support for the political and economic change that the people of the region deserve. But I want to be clear that change in the region will not and cannot be imposed by the United States or any foreign power. Ultimately it will be driven by the people of the Arab world. It is their right and their responsibility to determine their own destiny.

STATEMENTS OF INTEREST IN THE PRESS - LIBYA

As of 1200 CET 19 MAR 2011

Let me close by saying that there is no decision I face as your commander in chief that I consider as carefully as the decision to ask our men and women to use military force. Particularly at a time when our military is fighting in Afghanistan and winding down our activities in Iraq, that decision is only made more difficult.

But the United States of America will not stand idly by in the face of actions that undermine global peace and security. So I've taken this decision with the confidence that action is necessary and that we will not be acting alone. Our goal is focused, our cause is just, and our coalition is strong.

Thank you very much.

TRANSCRIPTS

President Obama's Remarks on Libya

PRESIDENT OBAMA: Good afternoon, everybody. I want to take this opportunity to update the American people about the situation in Libya.

Over the last several weeks, the world has watched events unfold in Libya with hope and alarm. Last month, protesters took to the streets across the country to demand their universal rights and a government that is accountable to them and responsive to their aspirations.

But they were met with an iron fist. Within days, whole parts of the country declared their independence from a brutal regime. And members of the government serving in Libya and abroad chose to align themselves with the forces of change.

Moammar Gadhafi clearly lost the confidence of his own people and the legitimacy to lead. Instead of respecting the rights of his own people, Gadhafi chose the path of brutal suppression. Innocent civilians were beaten, imprisoned and in some cases killed. Peaceful protests were forcefully put down. Hospitals were attacked and patients disappeared. A campaign of intimidation and repression began.

In the face of this injustice, the United States and the international community moved swiftly. Sanctions were put in place by the United States and our allies and partners. The U.N. Security Council imposed further sanctions, an arms embargo and the specter of international accountability for Gadhafi and those around him. Humanitarian assistance was positioned on Libya's borders. And those displaced by the violence received our help.

Ample warning was given that Gadhafi needed to stop his campaign of repression or be held accountable. The Arab League and the European Union joined us in calling for an end to violence.

Once again, Gadhafi chose to ignore the will of his people and the international community.

Instead, he launched a military campaign against his own people. And there should be no doubt about his intentions, because he, himself, has made them clear. For decades, he's demonstrated a willingness to use brute force, through his sponsorship of terrorism against the American people as well as others, and through the killings that he has carried out within his own borders.

And just yesterday, speaking of the city of Benghazi a -- a city of roughly 700,000 people, he threatened, and I quote: "We will have no mercy and no pity." No mercy on his own citizens.

Now, here's why this matters to us. Left unchecked, we have every reason to believe that Gadhafi would commit atrocities against his people. Many thousands could die. A humanitarian crisis would ensue. The entire region could be destabilized, endangering many of our allies and partners. The calls of the Libyan people for help would go unanswered. The democratic values that we stand for would be overrun. Moreover, the words of the international community would be rendered hollow.

And that's why the United States has worked with our allies and partners to shape a strong international response at the United Nations. Our focus has been clear: protecting innocent civilians within Libya, and holding the Gadhafi regime accountable.

Yesterday, in response to a call for action by the Libyan people and the Arab League, the U.N. Security Council passed a strong resolution that demands an end to the violence against citizens. It authorizes the use of force, with an explicit commitment to pursue all necessary measures to stop the killing, to include the enforcement of a no-fly zone over Libya.

It also strengthens our sanctions and the enforcement of an arms embargo against the Gadhafi regime.

Now, once more, Moammar Gadhafi has a choice. The resolution that passed lays out very clear conditions that must be met. The United States, the United Kingdom, France and Arab states agree that a cease-fire must be implemented immediately. That means all attacks against civilians must stop. Gadhafi must stop his troops from advancing on Benghazi; pull them back from Adjadbiya, Misrata and Zawiya; and establish water, electricity and gas supplies to all areas. Humanitarian assistance must be allowed to reach the people of Libya.

Let me be clear, these terms are not negotiable. These terms are not subject to negotiation. If Gadhafi does not comply with the resolution, the international community will impose consequences, and the resolution will be enforced through military action.

In this effort, the United States is prepared to act as part of an international coalition. American leadership is essential, but that does not mean acting alone. It means shaping the conditions for the international community to act together.

What's why I've directed Secretary Gates and our military to coordinate their planning, and tomorrow Secretary Clinton will travel to Paris for a meeting with our European allies and Arab partners about the enforcement of Resolution 1973.

We will provide the unique capabilities that we can bring to bear to stop the violence against civilians, including enabling our European allies and Arab partners to effectively enforce a no-fly zone.

I have no doubt that the men and women of our military are capable of carrying out this mission. Once more, they have the thanks of a grateful nation, and the admiration of the world.

I also want to be clear about what we will not be doing. The United States is not going to deploy ground troops into Libya, and we are not going to use force to go beyond a well-defined goal, specifically the protection of civilians in Libya. In the coming weeks, we will continue to help the Libyan people with humanitarian and economic assistance so that they can fulfill their aspirations peacefully.

Now, the United States did not seek this outcome. Our decisions have been driven by Gadhafi's refusal to respect the rights of his people and the potential for mass murder of innocent civilians.

It is not an action that we will pursue alone. Indeed, our British and French allies and members of the Arab League have already committed to take a leadership role in the enforcement of this resolution, just as they were instrumental in pursuing it. We are coordinating closely with them. And this is precisely how the international community should work, as more nations bear both the responsibility and the cost of enforcing international law.

This is just one more chapter in the change that is unfolding across the Middle East and North Africa. From the beginning of these protests, we made it clear that we are opposed to violence. We've made clear our support for a set of universal values, and our support for the political and economic change that the people of the region deserve.

But I want to be clear that change in the region will not and cannot be imposed by the United States or any foreign power. Ultimately it will be driven by the people of the Arab world. It is their right and their responsibility to determine their own destiny.

Let me close by saying that there is no decision I face as your commander in chief that I consider as carefully as the decision to ask our men and women to use military force. Particularly at a time when our military is fighting in Afghanistan and winding down our activities in Iraq, that decision is only made more difficult.

But the United States of America will not stand idly by in the face of actions that undermine global peace and security. So I've taken this decision with the confidence that action is necessary and that we will not be acting alone. Our goal is focused, our cause is just, and our coalition is strong.

Thank you very much.

Statements of Interest in the Press AM edition 25 MAR

STATEMENTS

25 MARCH 2011

-NATO Secretary-General Anders Fogh Rasmussen, March 24, 2011: "At this moment, there will still be a coalition operation and a NATO operation."

-U.K. Foreign Secretary William Hague, March 24, 2011, referring to why military operations had been launched against Libya: "The case for this action remains utterly compelling, appalling violence against Libyan citizens continues to take place exposing the regime's claims to have ordered a ceasefire to be an utter sham."

-U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, March 24, 2011: "This operation has already saved many lives, but the danger is far from over. As long as the Qaddafi regime threatens its people and defies the United Nations, we must remain vigilant and focused."

-U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, March 24, 2011: "Our mission has been to use America's unique capabilities to create the conditions for the no-fly zone and to assist in meeting urgent humanitarian needs. And as expected, we're already seeing a significant reduction in the number of U.S. planes involved in operations."

-U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, March 24, 2011: "This evening, the United Arab Emirates announced they are joining the coalition and sending planes to help protect Libyan civilians and enforce the no-fly zone. We welcome this important step. It underscores both the breadth of this international coalition and the depth of concern in the region for the plight of the Libyan people."

-U.S. Joint Staff director Vice Adm. Bill Gortney, March 24, 2011: "Our message is, don't follow the regime's orders, don't attack the people, just cease fighting, stay in place, abandon your equipment. But if you threaten the Libyan people, attack the Libyan people, we are going to take you under attack."

-U.S. Joint Staff director Vice Adm. Bill Gortney, March 24, 2011: "If you can work on their supply lines, their logistics capabilities, cut them off, they're not going to be able to sustain their efforts inside the cities,"

-U.S. Joint Staff director Vice Adm. Bill Gortney, March 24, 2011, referring to the restructuring the command and control of military operations supporting the UNSCR 1973: "No one in the U.S. military is underestimating the challenge here...This is a complicated process and, to some degree, it's being done on the fly."

-U.S. Africa Command General Carter F. Ham, March 24, 2011: "The phrase that we use is that the United States will contribute its unique military capabilities to whatever this second phase of operation would be. There's probably some intelligence support that we would continue to provide, some communications, tankers for aircraft. ... But we wouldn't see probably a large number of fighter aircraft for example."

-U.S. Africa Command General Carter F. Ham, March 24, 2011: "We remain very, very conscious and very careful about civilian casualties. It's very difficult to assess what the effect of an attack might be in those built-up areas and secondly it's difficult to distinguish between opposition forces and regime forces. It's very difficult to discern who is attacking who in those very complex situations. It is the toughest thing we have to do right now and we're working very hard to do that."

-French Ministry of Defense statement, March 24, 2011, referring to French action taken to enforce the no-fly zone against a Libyan jet airborne over Misrata: "The French patrol carried out an air-to-ground strike using an A2SM missile while the fighter jet of Colonel Gadhafi's forces had just landed at the military base in Misrata."

FROM ARABIC AND FRENCH PRESS

24 MAR 2011

French Defense Minister: "Intel indicates Qaddafi's mil. Advisors are telling him they are hopeless in the current fight." "Qaddafi's regime will collapse faster than we expect."

French Foreign Minister: "It may take days to destroy Qaddafi's military." "Our raids continue and our goal is to help the opposition forces win."

Turkish Foreign Minister: "NATO will take over command of the ops in the next day or two."

Italian Admiral Renaldo Ferri: "The coalition closed the main passage to stop weapons smuggling to Libya."

Mohammed Ben Ghalbun, Chairman of the Libyan Constitutional Union (Opposition party): "The US is giving Qaddafi enough time to control western Libya." "It was US's job to tackle western Libya, but they focused on minor targets and allowed Qaddafi forces to continue shelling cities."

Moroccan Foreign Minister: "We are not comfortable with ops in Libya. We seen Arab "spring" but we are not sure if there's going to be a summer anytime soon. Maybe a long dark winter..."

French President: "Everyone should understand that coordination must remain highly political, although it will depend on the machinery of NATO, because Arab countries that are not members of the alliance are involved in the response to Libya."

NATO countries agreed on Thursday to enforce a no-fly zone in Libya to protect civilians against Muammar Gaddafi's forces, but fell short of a final agreement to take full command of all military operations in the North African state. NATO officials said a decision was expected on Sunday on whether to broaden the mandate to take full command, including over attacks on ground targets to protect civilian areas under threat from Muammar Gaddafi's forces. NATO Secretary-General Anders Fogh Rasmussen told reporters after four days of tough negotiations the U.S.-led alliance's new mandate did not extend beyond enforcing an arms embargo and no-fly zone, although it could act in self-defense. NATO officials said alliance operations to enforce the no-fly zone were expected to get under way in 48-72 hours. The NATO operation would be commanded by U.S. Admiral Samuel Locklear, operations commander of the coalition mission.

NATO will take over control of Libyan military operations this weekend after Britain made an emotional appeal to allies to put a quick end to the "appalling violence" of the Gaddafi regime. Under a deal hammered out in bad tempered negotiations on Thursday between Britain, the US, France and Turkey, the Alliance will assume a leading military role within 48 hours. Hague proposed a two-tiered structure giving "NATO assets" command and control of military operations, the "arms embargo, no-fly zone and civilian protection," which was approved by the US, Turkey and France. The second structure, modelled on Nato's International Security Assistance Force mission in Afghanistan, will bring together Nato and non-Alliance countries, including the Arab League and African Union, to "steer" strategy.

Libya: Gaddafi regime claims 100 civilians have been killed by coalition air strikes

State media Libya have repeatedly stressed the civilian casualties of the air strikes, which they say include many children. But officials have been unable to give definitive figures, and have provided no firm evidence of the breakdown of civilian and military casualties. In a reversal of practices in similar situations where governments have been keen to show off civilian losses, police and militia on Thursday detained seven journalists for an hour at a checkpoint near Tajoura Hospital in the east of the city, where casualties were to be undergoing treatment. They were eventually escorted back to their hotel after being refused access.

NATO agreed to take command of the Libya no-fly zone, stopping short of assuming responsibility for airstrike missions against Libyan ground forces that sparked discord within the 28-nation alliance. The limited agreement among members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization may delay a U.S. handoff of responsibility for strikes on Muammar Qaddafi's fighters. The anti-Qaddafi coalition will continue to handle actions which don't involve the no-fly zone, said NATO Secretary-General Anders Fogh Rasmussen. Foreign ministers from coalition nations plan to meet March 29 in London to discuss Libya issues.

Aided by Western airstrikes, the opposition appears to regain some momentum against Moammar Kadafi's forces. After losing ground to government forces for weeks, Libyan rebels based in the eastern city of Benghazi showed signs Thursday of regaining the momentum against Libyan leader Moammar Kadafi, whose brutal crackdown on protesters opposed to his four-decade rule has sparked civil warfare. Rebel spokesman Col. Ahmed Omar Bani said some government fighters in the front-line city of Ajdabiya had lost contact with their commanders and were negotiating to withdraw and head west toward government-controlled territory.

FOREIGN LEADER PUBLIC STATEMENTS ON LIBYA

Last updated Thursday, March 24, 2011, 1345 ET

BELGIUM: Military officials noted that their F-16s only have a mandate to attack military targets threatening citizens, not more generally to help rebels liberate Libyan cities.

CZECH REPUBLIC: FM expressed support for full NATO control.

FRANCE: Continues to press for NATO operational control under coalition political control; FM and DM highlighted success of operation to date, saying operation will last days or weeks, not months.

GERMANY: Chancellor Merkel addressed Parliament Wed evening reiterating support for UNSC resolution, saying "we are not neutral" but also that "We don't make every global event into a local event."

GREECE: Foreign Ministry spokesperson notes that any military action will not be the ultimate solution and that a political solution will be required.

ICELAND: Earlier in the week suggested possible participation like opening airspace.

ITALY: In multiple public appearances and interviews, the PM, FM and DM pushed for NATO control and specifically highlighted French opposition to this plan. Also, the Senate approved military action.

JORDAN: Appeared to deny the announcement by UK PM Cameron yesterday that they would be providing logistical support for the coalition, noting no ground operations and a future humanitarian role.

KUWAIT: The official news agency ran an article on Italian lauding of Kuwait logistical support announced by UK PM Cameron.

LITHUANIA: While noting inability to directly participate, highlighted support for the coalition.

MOROCCO: FM, appearing with SecState Clinton in DC highlighted supported for UNSC resolution and in particular Morocco's humanitarian efforts under the resolution.

NETHERLANDS: Parliament approved military action on Wednesday evening.

NORWAY: DM noted that Norway will not participate in ("red card") individual air missions when it deems the risk to civilians to be too great.

ROMANIA: clarifying deployment of frigate for embargo, said that it would not fire at Libya. The timeline of the deployment is still somewhat unclear in public reports.

SPAIN: In interviews, DM reiterated that Spain is "comfortable" with the French proposal.

SWEDEN: Noted no lack of coalition aircraft for the mission, and expressed caution and need for clear rules of engagement from the outset when using military force.

TURKEY: Parliament approved participation in embargo on Thursday; FM will attend upcoming London conference; President and PM made public comments critical of France in particular.

STATEMENTS

-U.S. President Barack Obama, March 27 2011: "Our military has provided unique capabilities at the beginning, but this is now a broad, international effort. Our allies and partners are enforcing the no-fly zone over Libya and the arms embargo at sea. Key Arab partners like Qatar and the United Arab Emirates have committed aircraft."

-U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates, March 27, 2011, referring to the possibility that more of Qadhafi's associates would defect: "We have things in our tool box in addition to hammers ... one should not underestimate the possibility of the regime itself cracking."

-NATO Secretary General Anders Fogh Rasmussen, March 27, 2011, referring to NATO taking over operations: "We are already enforcing the arms embargo and the no-fly zone, and with today's decision we are going beyond. We will be acting in close co-ordination with our international and regional partners to protect the people of Libya . . . NATO will implement all aspects of the UN Resolution. Nothing more, nothing less."

-NATO Secretary General Anders Fogh Rasmussen, March 27, 2011: "We have directed NATO's top operational commander to begin executing this operation with immediate effect. Our goal is to protect civilians and civilian-populated areas under threat from the Gaddafi regime."

-U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, March 27, 2011: " (Libya) had a leader who used military force against the protesters from one end of his country to the other, who publicly said things like 'we'll show no mercy,' 'we'll go house to house,' and the international community moved with great speed in part because there's a history here."

-British Defense Secretary Liam Fox, March 27, 2011: "As they move round the coast, of course, the rebels will increasingly control the exit points of Libya's oil. That will produce a very dynamic and a very different equilibrium inside Libya. How that will play out in terms of public opinion and the Gadhafi regime remains to be seen."

-Libyan Deputy Foreign Minister Khaled Kaim, March 27, 2011: "This is the objective of the coalition now, it is not to protect civilians because now they are directly fighting against the armed forces. They are trying to push the country to the brink of a civil war."

-Libyan government spokesman Moussa Ibrahim, March 28, 2011: "The rebels are making their advance and no one is stopping them. And no one is even talking to them or saying, 'Where are you going?' or 'Why are you taking offensive positions and attacking the Libyan army and Libyan cities?'"

FROM ARABIC AND FRENCH PRESS

Libya's former permanent representative to the United Nations, Abdel-Rahman Shalgam, confirmed to Al-Jazeera that Sertu fell to the rebels. He added: "the people of the city met the rebels with welcome and cheering. All of Qaddafi's soldiers had fled the city 24 hours before."

The American businessman of Lebanese descent, Roger Tamraz, said he had spoken to Libyan leader Muammar Gaddafi's entourage, and that senior figures among them have a strong desire to reach a cease-fire, and to make a peace deal with the opposition which is trying to topple Qaddafi from power.

The spokesman for the Libyan National Transitional Council, Wanees Al-Drissi, asked the international community to "hunt down the tyrant and to punish him" for the rape of Libyan woman, Ayman Al-Obaydi, by 15 members of a battalions loyal to Qaddafi.

Iranian President, Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, criticized the United States and Western nations over their intervention in the affairs of other nations, accusing Washington and its allies to defend their illegal interests by waging wars on others.

Ali Tarhuni, the opposition's official in charge of economic, financial and petroleum affairs in Ben Ghazi: "Qatar petroleum has accepted to take all the oil produced in opposition-controlled areas of Libya and market it for the opposition."

The hometown of Libyan leader Muammar Gaddafi has fallen into the hands of insurgents, said a spokesman for the insurgency early Monday. No independent confirmation of the announcement of the insurgents could be obtained yet. The Libyan regime has, for now, not denied the fall of that stronghold.

Former Socialist Prime Minister Lionel Jospin said Sunday that the international intervention in Libya was a "just cause" and "legitimate" and that it was "exactly in the spirit of resolution 1973" of the UN. "Without it there would have been a bloodbath in Benghazi and fierce repression" of the Libyan opposition by forces of Colonel Gaddafi.

Rebels fighting Col. Moammar Gadhafi's regime saw a revival in their fortunes Sunday as international airstrikes that started more than a week ago helped them regain territory previously lost to government forces. The turnaround came the same day the North Atlantic Treaty Organization agreed to take full command from the United Nations of all international military operations in and around the country. Coming one day ahead of President Barack Obama's speech on Monday to address U.S. involvement in Libya, the NATO decision frees up the U.S. to play a more subordinate role in the operations. The decision extends NATO's responsibilities to cover the protection of civilians beyond its existing task of enforcing a no-fly zone and an arms embargo. But it doesn't change the nature of the military mission in Libya. Secretary of Defense Robert Gates said he couldn't be sure NATO would have finished its mission by the year-end, saying: "I don't think anybody knows that."

RAS LANOUF, Libya -- International air raids targeted Moammar Gadhafi's hometown of Sirte for the first time Sunday night as rebels quickly closed in on the regime stronghold, a formidable obstacle that must be overcome for government opponents to reach the capital Tripoli.

A heavy bombardment of Tripoli also began after nightfall, with at least nine loud explosions and anti-aircraft fire heard, an Associated Press reporter in the city said.

NATO's Secretary General, Anders Fogh Rasmussen, has said it has decided to take on the whole military operation in Libya "with immediate effect." The alliance will enforce "all aspects" of the UN resolution authorising action to protect civilians. "Nothing more, nothing less," Mr Rasmussen added. While Nato ambassadors discussed the international military operation, rebel forces in eastern Libya took advantage of the devastating effect of the air and missile strikes on Col Gaddafi's forces to advance westwards. "Gaddafi's forces are now scared rats," Mohammed Ali al-Atwish, a rebel fighter in Bin Jawad, told the AFP news agency. They are dropping their weapons and uniforms and dressing as civilians. We are no longer concerned about Gaddafi's forces at all."

Bin Jawad is the latest town to fall as Libyan rebels' rapid advance west takes them closer to Gaddafi-held Sirte. Libyan rebels are moving westwards towards a possible showdown with government forces loyal to the country's embattled leader, Muammar Gaddafi. Opposition forces backed by coalition air strikes have already seized control of the key towns of Bin Jawad, Ras Lanuf, Uqayla, Brega and Ajdabiya in a rapid advance along the coastline. Meanwhile, the next town in the rebels' path, Gaddafi's hometown of Sirte, was reported to be under attack by coalition warplanes for the first time late on Sunday, according to Libyan state television. Coalition air strikes targets in Tripoli also resumed on Sunday night with explosions heard in the Libyan capital.

Ras Lanuf, Libya (CNN) -- Libyan opposition fighters marched west Sunday, seizing control of two key cities, CNN observed, and gaining ground as coalition airstrikes continued to pound the North African nation. Rebel forces told CNN that forces loyal to Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi pulled back from Ras Lanuf. A CNN crew in the city witnessed damaged vehicles on the outskirts of the town, though the town appeared to have avoided major destruction. Coalition airstrikes continued Sunday as NATO approved an operations plan that will shift the entire Libyan military mission to alliance command, officials said.

New coalition airstrikes reportedly underway in Libya; strikes help rebels advance

TRIPOLI, Libya --Libyan state television reported Sunday night that international airstrikes were targeting Moammar Gaddafi's hometown and stronghold of Sirte for the first time. There were at least nine loud explosions in Tripoli after nightfall and anti-aircraft fire was heard. "Civilian and military areas in Tripoli were hit a short while ago by the crusader, colonialist aggressors," Libyan state television said in a written news flash. The explosions were followed by sustained bursts of anti-aircraft gunfire by Libyan forces. Defense Secretary Robert Gates said in an interview taped Saturday for CBS's "Face the Nation" that there is no proof of the Gaddafi government claims that coalition airstrikes have killed civilians, the Associated Press reported. According to AP, Gates said that intelligence reports indicate Gaddafi supporters are putting bodies of people killed by government forces at sites attacked by coalition planes.

US reducing naval firepower aimed at Gadhafi

NATO decides Sunday to take over command and control of the entire Libya operation. WASHINGTON – In a sign of U.S. confidence that the weeklong assault on Libya has tamed Moammar Gadhafi's air defenses, the Pentagon has reduced the amount of naval firepower arrayed against him, officials said Sunday. The move, not yet publicly announced, reinforces the White House message of a diminishing U.S. role – a central point in President Barack Obama's national address Monday night on Libya. The White House booked Defense Secretary Robert Gates and Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton on three Sunday news shows to promote the administration's case ahead of the speech. At least one of the five Navy ships and submarines that have launched dozens of Tomahawk cruise missiles at Libyan targets from positions in the Mediterranean Sea has left the area, three defense officials said. They spoke on condition of anonymity in order to discuss sensitive military movements.

All,

(b)(1)1.4a, (b)(1)1.4g

We are providing an IDC. The embassy does have a nurse and a combat medic, so medical is well covered.

Thanks, (b)(3)/(b)(6)

Subject: RFI's

(b)(3)/(b)(6)

I have a few RFI's that we are looking for answers on:

- 1) ROE: have you received a submantle list
- 2) What non-lethal gear did you send out
- 3) Status on the CON OPS

Also, on a side note, do still want the Gunner, (b)(6) and the CQB instructor to come out next week for your shoot house? I don't want to add any more distractions down there. Let me know so I can cancel their tickets.

FASTEUR SMART-PACK

MISSION/CAPABILITIES

Provide limited duration expeditionary antiterrorism and security forces in support of designated component and geographic combatant commanders in order to protect vital naval and national assets. Deployable within 6 hours of receipt of mission.

SPECIFIC CAPABILITIES:

- Establish/reinforce entry control points
- Provide overwatch/designated marksman/selective target engagement
- Observation posts/surveillance detection
- Establish perimeters at crisis sites
- Pier side or airfield security
- Foot and mobile patrols
- Crowd/riot control
- Use of non-lethal weapons
- Provide security for convoy operations
- Full Spectrum Tactical Communication
- Capable of operating in austere environments (organic billeting, power generation, chow/water sustainment for 10 days)
- Limited engineering supplies to support site security; limited to concertina wire, portable jersey barriers, limited flood lights.
- Designed to integrate with existing Embassy security force or operate as a stand-alone security force.

Mission Essential Tasks (METs):

- MET 1: Deploy and redeploy a force
- MET 2: Conduct antiterrorism security operations
- MET 3: Conduct convoy security operations
- MET 4: Conduct limited offensive operations
- MET 5: Conduct limited defensive operations
- MET 6: Conduct Level 2 VBSS operations

SHORTFALLS/LIMITATIONS

- No organic transportation capability (air or ground)
- Limited Fuel sustainment capability (5gal jugs) for limited number of small-portable generators.
- No means to establish SIPR/NIPR connectivity
- No water purification capability
- Limited medical support via organic Fleet Corpsman

Ensure our planners are wired in with AFRICOM.

Ensure your ship accounts get on this distro.

I have pushed them to (b)(3)/(b)(6)

Can you answer these please.

Need to know how long it'll take to get (b)(1)1.4a moving

What it'll look like in terms of pax, equipment, and what lift it will require to get them somewhere

Earliest time it can be ready to move

When it could be on station (b)(1)1.4a

FASTEUR SMART-PACK

MISSION/CAPABILITIES

Provide limited duration expeditionary antiterrorism and security forces in support of designated component and geographic combatant commanders in order to protect vital naval and national assets. Deployable within 6 hours of receipt of mission.

SPECIFIC CAPABILITIES:

- Establish/reinforce entry control points
- Provide overwatch/designated marksman/selective target engagement
- Observation posts/surveillance detection
- Establish perimeters at crisis sites
- Pier side or airfield security
- Foot and mobile patrols
- Crowd/riot control
- Use of non-lethal weapons
- Provide security for convoy operations
- Full Spectrum Tactical Communication
- Capable of operating in austere environments (organic billeting, power generation, chow/water (b)(1) 1.4 (a))
- Limited engineering supplies to support site security; limited to concertina wire, portable jersey barriers, limited flood lights.
- Designed to integrate with existing Embassy security force or operate as a stand-alone security force.

Mission Essential Tasks (METs):

- MET 1: Deploy and redeploy a force
- MET 2: Conduct antiterrorism security operations
- MET 3: Conduct convoy security operations
- MET 4: Conduct limited offensive operations
- MET 5: Conduct limited defensive operations
- MET 6: Conduct Level 2 VBSS operations

SHORTFALLS/LIMITATIONS

- No organic transportation capability (air or ground)
- Limited Fuel sustainment capability (5gal jugs) for limited number of small-portable generators.
- No means to establish SIPR/NIPR connectivity
- No water purification capability
- Limited medical support via organic Fleet Corpsman

Mission and Capabilities

Provide limited duration expeditionary antiterrorism and security forces in support of designated component and geographic combatant commanders in order to protect vital naval and national assets. Deployable within 6 hours of receipt of mission.

SPECIFIC CAPABILITIES:

- Establish/reinforce entry control points
- Provide overwatch/designated marksman/selective target engagement
- Observation posts/surveillance detection
- Establish perimeters at crisis sites
- Pier side or airfield security
- Foot and mobile patrols
- Crowd/riot control
- Use of non-lethal weapons
- Provide security for convoy operations
- Full Spectrum Tactical Communication with over-the-horizon capability
- Capable of operating in austere environments (organic billeting, power generation, chow/water (b)(1) 1.4(a))
- Limited engineering supplies to support site security; limited to concertina wire, portable jersey barriers, limited flood lights.
- Designed to integrate with existing Embassy security force or operate as a stand-alone security force.

Mission Essential Tasks (METs):

- MET 1: Deploy and redeploy a force
- MET 2: Conduct antiterrorism security operations
- MET 3: Conduct convoy security operations
- MET 4: Conduct limited offensive operations
- MET 5: Conduct limited defensive operations
- MET 6: Conduct Level 2 VBSS operations

SHORTFALLS/LIMITATIONS

- No organic transportation capability (air or ground)
- Limited Fuel sustainment capability (5gal jugs) for limited number of small-portable generators.
- No means to establish SIPR/NIPR connectivity
- No water purification capability
- Limited medical support via organic Fleet Corpsman

Please see the thread from C6F. Can you provide some answers to (b)(3)/(b)(6) questions? No real big hurry, real world events do take precedence. He is just looking for some metrics to take care of the JOPES request (b)(1)1.4a so we can ear-mark a return.

Great job on meeting the call today. The CMDRE remarked how impressed he was about your response today.

Thanks!

I can build the records for the movement and place them on-call. When we have a better determination on when they really will execute their re-deployment, then I can plug in the required dates and validate the requirement up to EUCOM.

On a separate note, when there is some time and (b)(1)1.4a folks have had a chance to catch their breath, can you have them send me what their load out (b)(1)1.4a? EUCOM and AFRICOM want something in JOPES validated up, but I have pushed back as much as I can since I know this (b)(1)1.4a

I need to plug their redeployment info into JOPES and get it validated to EUCOM. I need someone from (b)(1)1.4a to tell me what their plans are so the ULNs can reflect what they are actually planning to do.

Please see the thread from C6F. Can you provide some answers to (b)(3)/(b)(6) questions? No real big hurry, real world events do take precedence. He is just looking for some metrics to take care of the JOPES request that took (b)(1)1.4a so we can ear-mark a return.

Great job on meeting the call today. The CMDRE remarked how impressed he was about your response today.

Thanks!

I can build the records for the movement and place them on-call. When we have a better determination on when they really will execute their re-deployment, then I can plug in the required dates and validate the requirement up to EUCOM.

On a separate note, when there is some time and (b)(1)1.4a folks have had a chance to catch their breath, can you have them send me what their load out is for (b)(1)1.4a? EUCOM and AFRICOM want something in JOPES validated up, but I have pushed back as much as I can since I know this is a (b)(1)1.4a

I need to plug their redeployment info into JOPES and get it validated to EUCOM. I need someone from the (b)(1)1.4a to tell me what their plans are so the ULNs can reflect what they are actually planning to do.

Can you shoot me a copy of the FAST Confirmation Brief? The info I have is a little dated (for example - (b)(1)1.4a .)

Just looking to review the information and provide our guys on the ground with what the latest and greatest info is.

Sir,

Thank you for the update. I have added a number of people to the CC line. If you could ensure they are all used in further updates that would help greatly.

We await your updates as you have them.

Sir,

We, SOCAFRICA, are looking to confirm that your guys have made contact with the DATT so that you can have point to point conversations. Has this happened? If so what are you looking at for (b)(1)1.4a?

Thank you for the help in advance.

3. (SBU) Two websites opposed to the Isaias regime, Assenna.com and Eritreadaily.net, reported on March 2 that President Isaias sent 200 elite commandos to serve Qaddafi in Libya under the leadership of Brigadier General Hadish Ephrem. The websites also noted that Hadish commanded a similar group in Somalia, but was ultimately defeated and returned to Eritrea through Kenya. In addition, Eritrea's MFA opined on March 2, "The Eritrean government believes that it would be legally and morally unjustified to pass a motion or a resolution on the 'suspension of the right of membership of the Libyan Arab Jamahiriya in the UN Human Rights Council' without/before conducting appropriate full and independent investigation on the matter."

Thanks for the update. After you get some rest, I will need that CONOPS before the OPSUM meeting the CO or XO has before 1100 tomorrow.

I have a few RFI's that we are looking for answers on:

- 1) ROE: have you received a submantle list
- 2) What non-lethal gear did you send out
- 3) Status on the CON OPS

Also, on a side note, do still want the Gunner, (b)(3)/(b)(6) and the CQB instructor to come out next week for your shoot house? I don't want to add any more distractions down there. Let me know so I can cancel their tickets.
