RESOUNDING VICTORIES OF TRUNG BO LIBERATION TROOPS HAILED

QUAN DOI NHAN DAN 2 April EditorialHanoi Domestic Service in Vietnamese 0430 GMT 2 Apr 71 S

(Text) In an editorial entitled "Two Heavy Blows at the U.S. and Puppet Troops," QUAN DOI NHAN DAN on 2 April pointed out the significance of two outstanding battles of annihilation fought by the central Trung Bo liberation troops in Quang Nam and Kontum.

QUAN DOI NHAN DAN stressed: The outstanding battles of annihilation at (Sa Dat), on Hill 1001, and at (Ngoc Linh Vua) and the battle in which the command post of the Duc Duc military subsector was destroyed were heavy blows dealt at the Nixon clique at a moment when it was still dizzy by the ignominious defeats in souther Laos, On Route 9 in Cambodia, and to the north of Luang Prabang.

These victories not only were additional vigorous blows at the Vietnamization program which is being bankrupted, but also have frustrated Nixon's plot to reduce U.S. casualties to a low level. Both U.S. and puppet troops were heavily beaten. Along with the annihilation of scores of puppet brigades, regiments, armored detachments, and battalions on various battlefields throughout Indochina, the annihilation of a U.S. battalion at its very base has heightened Nixon's confusion.

The U.S. aggressors defeat is obvious. They are unable to mollify the U.S. public opinion. Instead the struggle movement to demand that U.S. authorities in Washington withdraw all U.S. troops and end the war of aggression in Indochina has strongly developed in the United States.

Following the brilliant victories on Route 9, in the northeastern region of Cambodia, in northern Laos, in the U Minh region in South Vietnam, and in other areas, the recent victories in Quang Nam and Kontum are strongly encouraging the troops and people of the three Indochinese countries to take advantage of these victories to advance, attack more vigorously, and win greater victories.

Emulating with the Quang Nam and Kontom combatants, troops and people on various fronts throughout South Vietnam are determined to overcome all difficulties, intensify their attacks, attack the U.S. puppets continuously and everywhere, coordinate small-scale, medium-scale with large-scale attacks, annihilate more enemy troops, frustrate the enemy's pacification plot, inflict heavier defeats on the enemy, and advance toward completely defeating the U.S. aggressors' Vietnamization program.
